Your Guide to Overcoming Erectile Dysfunction, for Almost any Man of any Age and with any Medical History

At last, Body Basics ED Solutions brings together a national group of experienced and dedicated medical physicians who have devoted their practice exclusively and full-time to erectile dysfunction and premature ejaculation. Every day we treat men just like you, from all walks of life, as old as 95, and with virtually every medical condition you can imagine.

Led by our renowned Board Certified Urologist
these doctors are so sure that you'll have a positive reaction to their custom blended prescription medication on your first visit that if you don't --- it's FREE!

That's right, the office visit and test dose of medication is totally FREE if you don't respond positively. How can they possibly make such a no-risk guarantee? There have recently been major medical advances, and one of the most significant advancements throughout the years has been in treating men who suffer from erectile dysfunction. Once considered taboo, erectile dysfunction is an affliction that has earned greater awareness, exposure, and research. As a result, treatment options have significantly increased, and the effectiveness of those treatments has dramatically improved. In this free report, you will learn about a groundbreaking medical treatment that works for almost every man, regardless of age or any medical history that contributed to his condition. Besides, it's a safer and more effective treatment than the standard medications prescribed for ED. Unfortunately, most men do not know about this treatment option and continue to subject themselves to the dangerous side effects of the common prescription drugs used to treat ED or resign themselves to a life without sex. Why don't men know about this safer, more reliable treatment? Because some drug companies and doctors don't want them to know about it.

As specialists in men's health and erectile dysfunction, our erectile dysfunction doctors believe every man deserves to know that a proven and effective treatment is available—one that even works when other drugs don't. This free report lets you know what the drug companies don't want you to know about this phenomenal treatment option...and why it's important for your health and sex life.

In this free and informative guide, you'll learn:

- Why the popular prescription drugs are not a long-term solution for erectile dysfunction
- Why acoustical shockwave treatment for ED is not the answer
- The real facts about erectile dysfunction treatments that doctors aren't telling you
- The side effects of popular drugs that can cause permanent damage—or even death
- About a safer treatment for those suffering from erectile dysfunction

If you or a loved one suffers from erectile dysfunction, you've probably already tried standard treatments. You know all about Viagra®, Cialis®, Levitra®—and have found they don't work or have stopped working like they used to. You've exhausted the popular treatments and drugs and are ready to resign yourself to a life without the satisfaction and pleasure of a healthy sex life. And you're not alone.

The New England Journal of Medicine states that nearly one-third of all men have experienced premature ejaculation (PE). One-half of all men between the ages of 40 and 70 suffer from erectile dysfunction (ED). Here are a few other statistics:

- Erectile dysfunction (ED) affects nearly 40% of 40-year-old men and over 65% of 70-year-old men.
- 90% of ED cases are caused by physical factors, primarily vascular diseases.
- 33% of sexually active men face PE. Without treatment, it can be a life-long problem.

- Over 50% of men suffer from ED between the ages of 40 and 70.
- Over half of people aged 65 to 74 are sexually active. One in four between the ages of 75 to 85 is sexually active.

Even more astounding than the high number of men who suffer from erectile dysfunction is the effect it has on them. Men who are unable to maintain an erection sufficient for satisfactory intercourse suffer from a wide range of effects, including low self-esteem, lack of confidence, poor relationships, unsatisfactory work performance, and the loss of their pride, just to name a few.

Beware of Acoustical Shockwave Therapy for ED

The latest craze in ED treatment these days seems to be the private clinics popping up everywhere offering acoustical wave therapy, or shockwave as it's better known, to treat erectile dysfunction. Charging anywhere from $3,000 to $5,000 or more for a series of three weekly treatments done in an office over six weeks, and any results come months later, if at all. Of course, the clinics then pressure you to sign up again for another series of treatments. The shockwave treatment is touted to deliver sound waves through your erectile tissue. A medic holds your penis for fifteen-minutes and works it over with a "wand" instrument. Headphones are used to cancel out the piercing jackhammer-level noise, and many patients have reported it is extremely painful. Patients should be aware that this is not an FDA-approved treatment for ED, and clinical studies have shown many uncertainties about any long-term effectiveness and safety. "Resist the temptation of this high-priced quick-fix treatment lacking federal regulatory approval," says Dr. Jared Bieniek, Medical Director of Hartford HealthCare. In 2020 the Sexual Medicine Society of North America warned that potential shockwave patients should be "fully informed regarding the potential risks" because of a lack of clinical trials to determine its safety in humans. The International Society for Sexual Medicine issued this statement: "Shockwave therapy is considered an experimental treatment. Scientists need to conduct further research to confirm current findings for erectile dysfunction." Professor Arthur Burnett, M.D., a world-renowned authority on the science and medicine of ED, says, "The suggestion that it works on everybody is highly questionable. It's very controversial. Patients involved in clinical trials should not incur more than basic research costs for their participation." Certainly not the huge fees private clinics are charging. And when the mild results wear off, and they do, you're on the hook for another series of treatments. And so on.

If you suffer from ED or PE, you know how devastating it can be. You've probably also suffered the embarrassment and humiliation of going to the doctor for treatment. In fact, you've probably already reached for the little blue pill, just as millions of other men have, in the hopes that it would be your miracle cure. But you were disillusioned to find that...

The Popular Drugs Don't Work!

Our doctors know that Viagra®, Cialis®, Levitra® aren't for everyone. They don't always work, and when they do, they become less effective over time, making you even more dependent on these drugs! Although these drugs are the standard treatment for men suffering from erectile dysfunction, they are not a long-term solution. There are things that doctors and pharmaceutical companies aren't telling you—things they don't want you to know.

This free report will provide you with that information so you can make informed decisions and find a safe, effective treatment that will work for you. If you're suffering from ED or PE, don't wait another day to begin enjoying an active, healthy, satisfying sex life. There is an alternative to the popular drugs—one that's safe and effective.

What Doctors and Pharmaceutical Companies Don't Want You to Know about Erectile Dysfunction and Treatments

1. Erectile Dysfunction is a medical problem.

Too often, doctors grant a patient's request for Viagra® or one of the other prescription drugs that promise to help men regain their performance in the bedroom, pulling out their pad and scribbling a prescription for a handful of pills. Problem solved. Right?

Wrong.

Popular prescription drugs for erectile dysfunction are a band-aid for a medical problem. Yes, erectile dysfunction is a medical problem that deserves a diagnosis and proper treatment, rather than simply making the symptoms go away temporarily.

A man's inability to become erect is more than a performance problem—it's a sign that something may be physically wrong. In fact, the ability to achieve and maintain an erection is one indicator of good health. Any difficulty achieving or maintaining an erection can be an indication of a serious illness and should be addressed before prescribing any drugs.

Medical diseases and problems that can cause erectile dysfunction:

- Diabetes
- Kidney disease or injury
- Disorders of the nervous system
- Vascular disease, including atherosclerosis (hardening of the arteries), high blood pressure, and high cholesterol
- Prostate cancer or enlargement
- Previous injuries or surgery
- Hormone irregularities
- Side effects of prescription drugs

Finding the underlying problem can lead to a permanent solution. However, prescribing drugs to mask the symptom without treating the cause could ignore an even more significant, potentially life-threatening problem. Every man deserves an evaluation, taking into account his medical history before being prescribed a drug that ignores the problem and could be dangerous to his condition! And his treatment should always be approved by a licensed erectile dysfunction physician who is up to date on the medical advances and treatment options now available.

2. Viagra®, Cialis®, and Levitra® don't always work!

The three popular drugs used to treat erectile dysfunction are not guaranteed cures. In fact, laboratory tests have shown that these drugs do not work in approximately 30 percent of the men who suffer from ED. In other words, more than one in every three men will not benefit from these drugs! As men get older, that percentage rises dramatically.

When the popular drugs fail, men with ED either suffer in silence or turn to ineffective supplements or painful treatments like penile implants or vacuum pumps.

3. Pharmaceutical companies don't want you to know that their erectile dysfunction drugs can be dangerous !

Viagra received applause from doctors and men worldwide when it was released. Finally, someone had found a medication that would give men the lasting erection they wanted. But little was known about the potential side effects of the drug.

In clinical studies, nine men died while using Viagra®. In 1998, the first year that Viagra® was on the market, an analysis of 1,473 major adverse medical events involving Viagra® was performed by Cedars-Sinai Medical Center. Among them were 522 deaths, the majority of which occurred in men under the age of 65 who had no previous cardiac problems history. However, since that time, there have been reports of relatively young men who had no prior history of heart problems who have died while using sildenafil, the pharmaceutical drug that it contains. According to these researchers, another percentage of deaths was attributed to patients who used nitrates for angina, chest pain, or other heart problems.

While the risk of death is relatively low compared to the massive amount of Viagra® users, the three major pharmaceutical drugs prescribed for erectile dysfunction have plenty of other side effects. Some should raise serious concerns:

- Flushing of the face
- Headaches
- Stomach pain and nausea
- Diarrhea
- Nasal congestion
- Vision problems, including blindness, loss of vision in one or both eyes, and being unable to differentiate between green and blue
- Dizziness
- Loss of hearing and ringing in the ears
- Swelling in the hands or feet
- Chest pain
- Irregular heartbeat
- Shortness of breath
- Memory problems
- Back pain
- Swelling of the lips, tongue, or throat
- Penis erection lasting four or more hours, a condition known as priapism, which could result in permanent tissue damage and permanent inability to achieve an erection

Physicians will caution you that some of these side effects are life-threatening and require immediate medical treatment. They should be considered an emergency. Besides, Viagra® should not be taken by individuals who take nitrates because it could cause a drastic drop in blood pressure. This is just one example of the potentially dangerous interactions that oral medications commonly prescribed for ED can have with other drugs.

The absolute truth is that doctors and the big pharmaceutical companies don't want you to know that you don't have to accept these side effects to have a satisfying sex life. They downplay or don't publicize the dangers of these drugs. They don't want you to know, and there are reasons...

4. Because most doctors don't know how to treat erectile dysfunction safely!

That's right—most doctors are not sufficiently trained in how to deal with and treat men's sexual health problems. It's a delicate problem that men are uncomfortable talking about, even with their doctors. And most doctors aren't specialists who have been trained in dealing with the underlying causes and treating them effectively. For these doctors, the little blue pill was the answer... whip out their prescription pad and send them to the pharmacy for an instant cure. Men request Viagra® and its sister drugs out of desperation, willing to do anything to regain their former healthy and satisfying sex life.

But there's a problem...

What if the pill doesn't work? What if the patient suffers from some of the many side effects that the popular medications cause? Remember, the problem isn't going to go away—it's still going to be there without the go-to "cure" for the problem. And for most men, the problem will recur because the fifth thing that doctors and pharmaceutical companies aren't telling you is...

5. Viagra®, Cialis®, and Levitra® stop working!

Many men are elated to find that they can achieve an erection with the help of a pill. As a result, they rely on it time and time again to regain their lost manhood. In fact, they become dependent on it, considering it to be a wonder drug that restores the sex life they've lacked for too long. On top of that, for some men, it's a recreational drug readily prescribed by physicians who have a no-questions-asked policy and are willing to prescribe a patient's whim.

But their love affair with Viagra® or other medication won't last. That's because most men who rely on these medications to produce an erection usually find that it stops working. Their body eventually adapts to the drug, and over time, they will need to rely on it more frequently and in higher doses.

Until the day when it stops working altogether.

And for most men, that is precisely what will happen. The drug will lose its effectiveness over time. Those who depend on it to achieve an erection will find themselves right back where they were before they began taking it—only this time, they'll be more disillusioned and desperate. If their go-to pill has failed them, they'll turn to alternate drugs and treatments, many of which are dangerous or not effective at all. Others will simply resign themselves to accept that their sex life is a thing of the past, never to be regained again.

The popular oral medications for erectile dysfunction are no different than any other drug—as time goes on, the body will adapt to it or require more of it to produce the desired results. Unfortunately, the majority of men who turn to these drugs find this out the hard way. When they do, they're shocked and disheartened. Their wonder pill has let them down. It was their last resort, and they have nowhere else to turn. Angered, they wonder why their doctor didn't tell them that it would eventually stop working! Why haven't the pharmaceutical companies prepared them for the fact that their pills are a temporary solution to a long-term problem?

Well, there's a reason...

6. Viagra®, Cialis®, and Levitra® are billion-dollar businesses.

Viagra® was the answer for millions of men who suffered from erectile dysfunction. Finally, there was a drug that they could easily get from their doctor that would restore their sex life and make them whole. Millions of men requested the drug, and doctors willingly and happily obliged, handing them an extremely costly prescription that very well may not work. Thinking it would be a small price to pay to regain their libido and ability to enjoy sex, most men didn't bat an eye when handing over their money.

But do the math.

Viagra® was released in 1998, and in the first year, it generated more than one billion dollars in sales for Pfizer, the pharmaceutical company that makes the drug. Since that time, erectile dysfunction drugs have been a very lucrative business for four major pharmaceutical companies (Pfizer, Bayer AG, Eli Lilly, and Auxilium). With tens of millions of men who have recurrent erectile dysfunction, these drugs have generated tens of billions of dollars in profits.

So, why aren't the pharmaceutical companies telling you about the side effects, shortcomings, and the ultimate decrease in these drugs' effectiveness? Because it would cost them money to do so!

Pharmaceutical companies gloss over the side effects, saying most are mild and the benefits outweigh the potential problems.

They fail to recognize the potential relationship between their drugs and the deaths of men taking them at the time of their demise.

Why? Because they want your money!

How many men would risk blindness, death, or a heart attack for a drug that doesn't work for 33 percent of the men who try it?

How many men would take these risks if they knew the drug would only provide temporary relief?

How many men would be willing to suffer the side effects and spend money on a potentially life-threatening drug if they knew there was a safer, more effective alternative?

Pharmaceutical companies don't want you to know the risks you're taking every time you pop one of their pills. They don't want you to know that specialists and science have produced an alternative to Viagra®, Cialis®, and Levitra® because it is a multi-billion dollar industry that has generated incredible profits.

They'd rather keep you in the dark than to let you know the biggest secret that doctors and pharmaceutical companies aren't telling you:

7. *There is a safe and effective treatment for erectile dysfunction that works for almost all men, no matter how old they are.

Regardless if you are 19 or 91 or have other medical conditions, there is a safer, more effective alternative for erectile dysfunction. The drugs the ED doctors use at Doctor's Medical Clinic are approved by the FDA and are available in dozens of different combinations (187 to be exact) that consider your unique needs, age, medical history, and sex life.

You read that right—regardless of your age or medical history, there is a safe and effective treatment that could restore your sex life and help you achieve and maintain an erection without the side effects of the popular pills!

As many as 96 percent of the men our doctors treat obtain their desired results the day their medication arrives at their home!

Unlike the big pharmas, our personalized approach and treatments carry a no-risk policy: If there's no reaction to our medication on the first visit, there's no charge.

Period.

And your erection lasts between 60 and 90 minutes, even after orgasm!

Our doctors and staff are specialists in erectile dysfunction and premature ejaculation. They treat every patient on an individual basis, taking into consideration their medical history and their health. These ED specialists use various FDA-approved drugs to create 187 combinations based on each patient's needs. Best of all, our patients don't have to risk their lives or sacrifice their health to regain their sex life.

They operate on one philosophy:

ALMOST EVERY man can and will achieve the erection they deserve and desire!

How can they make such promises?

1. They are all experienced licensed physicians, headed up by renowned Board Certified Urologist Dr. Mark Boyle, and have successfully treated hundreds of thousands of men with ED and PE.
2. They personalize every treatment plan, using a unique blend of safe, effective medications based on your medical history.
3. Our doctors will determine the right combination of medications for you, regardless of medical history, including diabetes, stroke, heart attacks, high blood pressure, prostate cancer, prostate removal, high stress, high cholesterol, obesity, heart transplants, low sexual desire, severe psychological problems, or other medication-related issues.
4. They will provide you with a treatment plan that works.
5. Your treatments can be adjusted later so they will not lose effectiveness over time.

Not only do we promise to treat every patient with ED or PE and provide him with a personalized treatment plan but we also promise to do it with the dignity and privacy you deserve. We know that erectile dysfunction and premature ejaculation are delicate issues, so we take every measure possible to ensure your privacy. We operate on the three C's:

Comfort + Confidentiality + Compassion

From the moment you contact Sutton Medical Clinic, you will be treated with the utmost respect and confidentiality. We understand that ED and PE are complex subjects to discuss, so we are committed to providing you with staff and physicians who will ensure your privacy and professionalism in a compassionate environment. We know that many men are reluctant to seek medical help for ED and PE, so they either don't contact a physician, or they broach the subject at the tail end of their appointment, quickly asking their doctor for a prescription as they walk out the door. In a hurry to get on to their next patient, the doctors willingly oblige, quickly jotting down a prescription without asking the questions that are necessary to find out what's really going on and the best treatment for the patient. Our doctors understand that erectile dysfunction is a medical condition, and they want to change that. Every man should have a physician who takes ED seriously and provides him with a thorough diagnosis and the safest, most effective treatment available.

Physicians and pharmaceutical companies don't want you to know about us.

They want you to remain dependent on them and their drugs, even when they aren't safe or don't work.

They want you to believe you have no other options.

They want you to come back again, and again, and again.

Because they want your money.

The big pharmas don't want to lose the billions of dollars in profit they generate from you and others like you. To them, you are a number—a $ sign—that represents repeat business. The more business, the more profit they'll enjoy.

Most doctors are as uncomfortable talking about and treating erectile dysfunction as you are... therefore, they'll gladly prescribe a quick fix to your problem, saving you both from embarrassment. If it works, great! The doctor gets your repeat business because you have to return regularly to get your prescription refilled. Each time you walk in the door, they charge you another $150 to $200, plus the prescription cost. Again, your medical issue is a fast and easy way for them to generate revenue.

They don't want you to know about us because you won't need them when you do.

Successfully treating your ED or PE is our doctors' number one priority—and they won't stop trying until they've succeeded and have created a unique and personalized blend of effective medications that work the first time, every time.

Their treatments work, regardless of how old you are or if you have health issues.

They work, regardless of the reason for your erectile dysfunction or performance ejaculation. You will achieve and maintain an erection, even if you have:

- Performance anxiety
- Low libido
- Low testosterone
- Prostate problems
- An inability to maintain an erection
- Injuries or prior surgeries
- Diabetes
- Past cardiovascular or heart problems
- Psychological problems
- Side effects from other medications

Doctors and pharmaceutical companies don't want you to know there is a safer, more effective alternative because it could potentially put them out of business, drastically minimize their profits, and make you less dependent on them.

They think they've got you right where they want you. They know how important it is for a man to have a healthy and active sex life, and they know most men will do just about anything to regain their sexual ability and be able to satisfy their partner. They sell promises they can't keep—promises that are empty and involve risks. They don't fully disclose important information that could be detrimental to your health. They don't care about you—they care about your money.

Don't become their next victim. Don't settle for less than the safest, most effective treatment for ED and PE available. No two men are the same—no two men should be treated the same. Regardless of whether he is 19 or 91, every man can have an erection and a satisfying love life, with a personalized treatment plan that's proven to work immediately—with confidentiality and dignity. And with our commitment, it will work the first time and every time.

You can have a sex life that lives as long as you do—with an erection that lasts as long as you want it to—without reliance on pharmaceutical drugs or procedures that are painful, uncomfortable, or dangerous to your health.

Doctors and pharmaceutical companies don't want you to know that. But our doctors do.

Please don't forget our NO RISK GUARANTEE:

If you fail to respond to the test-dose in the doctor's office then there's no charge for the medication or visit. That's how sure we are that we can help.
